

Established in 2014, the Pebble Trust has a vision for a more sustainable, fair, and low-carbon society, where constraints on fossil fuels lead to a more localised economy with stronger, more resilient communities.

Born out of a desire to support climate action, the Trust supports individuals, organisations and projects by providing up to £10,000 for projects across the Highlands and Islands, and sometimes beyond, seeking to address the climate and biodiversity crises and contribute to fairer and more just societies.

The Pebble Trust was started with the funds from one inheritance and we are pleased to have supported a range of projects since 2014 to work towards our vision in seeing a more sustainable, fair and low carbon society. We called ourselves the Pebble Trust as we hope our modest grant give rise to other ripples of climate action across the Highlands and Islands. We also seek to help applicants develop their ideas into a more viable, affordable, projects.
